Passion for technology, adaptability (Things change quickly) and communication, the most successful developers are the ones who can communicate with tech and non-tech people.

2. What do you look for in a top candidate, when you recruit?

Passion, passion, passion. Skills we can teach, passion for being a great developer we can't

3. Do you think that work experience is important for college students and why?

'Relevant' work experience is essential, it gives students a chance to dip into the world of work and see if this career is for them, it's a way of testing for them to see what kind of business they want to be in.

4. What is the best thing about working in your industry?

Great rate of change, it's exciting as things are never the same. The industry is growing rapidly and with the right skillsets there's great opportunity for remote working, great pay and benefits and a chance to work on something you genuinely care about.
